Creo que el núcleo fundamental de la sociedad es la persona, el ciudadano, y no un ente jurídico como la familia. Es sobre la base del ciudadano como persona humana, donde se estructura la arquitectura constitucional y a satisfacer sus necesidades es hacia donde deben ir dirigidas todas las políticas públicas. Los derechos de la persona humana están por encima de los intereses de la familia, los grupos intermedios y el Estado mismo, como colectivo social.

An open, online working group for researching, understanding, and innovating on citizen participation in constitution making.

An Open Working Group

The Constitution Lab brings together expertise from academia, civil society and technology to gather knowledge necessary to produce meaningful improvements to the process of constitution building.

The Lab works at the intersection of law, international development, political science, and technology, but welcomes perspectives from other areas, such as sociology, anthropology, media and communication.
