Creo que el nucleo fundamental de la sociedad es la persona, el ciudadano, y no un ente jurídico como la familia. Es sobre la base del ciudadano como persona humana, donde se estructura la arquitectura constitucional y a satisfacer sus necesidades es hacia donde deben ir dirigidas todas las políticas públicas. Los derechos de la persona humana están por encima de los intereses de la familia, los grupos intermedios y el Estado mismo, como colectivo social.

Como idea, es muy bueno todo lo que se dice, pero quien se preocupa que se respeten los derechos de las personas, cuando son las mismas autoridades que autorizan abusos de los bienes públicos vinculados a nuestro entorno natural, que afecta nuestra calidad de vida. Qué organismos autónomos del Gobierno.

Open Working Group

Constitution Lab is an open working group for researching, understanding and innovating on citizen participation in constitution making.
Visit ConstitutionLab.org!

An open, online working group for researching, understanding, and innovating on citizen participation in constitution making.

An Open Working Group
The Constitution Lab brings together expertise from academia, civil society and technology to gather knowledge necessary to produce meaningful improvements to the process of constitution building.

The Lab works at the intersection of law, international development, political science, and technology, but welcomes perspectives from other areas, such as sociology, anthropology, media and communication.
